

Democrats Plan Drive For Liberalized Social Security Benefit To Women, Handicapped

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—House Democratic leaders have decided on a surprise push to provide many millions of dollars in additional social security benefits for women and disabled persons.

The most important point in the program, to be launched soon in the House Ways and Means Committee, would lower the age at which women become eligible for benefits, from 65 to either 60 or 52.

This not only would enable millions of working women to retire earlier, but it also would increase initial benefits 50 per cent for couples where the husband retires at 65 with a dependent wife several years younger.

The second feature of the new move to further liberalize social security would provide immediate monthly payments when a worker becomes disabled. He has to wait until he reaches retirement age at 65 to benefit from the program now.

Work Out Details

Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee are working out details of these and other possible changes, and hope to bring them to the House floor in June. Until recently there had been virtually no talk of any social security legislation at this session of Congress.

Last year Congress passed President Eisenhower's request for a general increase in benefits all along the line. The Democratic move could be aimed at offsetting to some extent whatever political advantages the Republicans may claim from that action.

There long have been complaints about the 65-year age rules for women. A widow, for example, gets benefits so long as she has children under 18, but then gets no further payments until she reaches 65.

The argument has been that this leaves a gap in the social security program at a time when help might be sorely needed.

Also, there have been complaints that a working man may retire at 65 but fail to get maximum benefits for several years until his wife also reaches 65, although she may never have worked under social security. Thus benefits are lowest when the shock of his reduced income may be greatest.

A man gets half of his own monthly benefits for a dependent wife when she also reaches 65.

Claims Woman Jumped From Moving Truck

CAMBRIDGE, Md., May 22 (AP)—A Pennsylvania construction worker who told police a woman jumped from the truck he was driving along U.S. 50 will be charged with manslaughter in her death, State's Atty. C. Burnam Mace said last night.

The body of Geraldine Moore Golt, about 30, of Cambridge, was spotted lying in the road by Bernard Allen Cohen, 24, of Baltimore. Cohen told police he was unable to stop his car in time and ran over the woman.

Miss Golt was pronounced dead on arrival at Cambridge Hospital. Easy yesterday, deputies arrested 24-year-old John J. Murray of Columbia, Pa. Willey Harold Berry of Kousmont, N. C., owner of a pickup truck found near where Miss Golt was struck, told investigators he had loaned the truck to Murray.

Salk Gifts Continue To Aid Research

PITTSBURGH, May 22 (AP)—In addition to cash, gifts and congratulatory messages continue to be received at the University of Pittsburgh office of Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the anti-polio vaccine.

The university said cash donations are being set aside for a fund to be used in the field of preventive medicine.

Citizens of Amarillo, Tex. presented a plow and an auto to the scientist. And Pitt officials said the way he handled this was typical.

He sold the car and gave the money back to Amarillo—directing it to be used to purchase vaccine for children who couldn't afford it. The plow went to a boys' home in Texas.

Coast-To-Coast Conroy Says Record Round Trip Flight Enough For One Week's Work

LOS ANGELES, May 22 (AP)—How does it feel to cross the United States alone twice in one day? "Great," says Air National Guard Lt. John M. Conroy, who flew an F86 Sabre Jet coast-to-coast round-trip in 11 hours, 26 minutes 33 seconds. "But I couldn't make the same trip again in the same week."

Conroy, a World War II Air Force veteran who calls himself "a weekend pilot," celebrated his record-breaking flight by attending a National Guard dance last night. He planned to sleep late today.

Coast-to-coast Conroy beat the sun across the country by two hours 28 minutes. His breakfast-to-supper dash—broken up by lunch in New York City—was inspired by Armed Forces Day. He said he couldn't have done it without the help of his National Guard buddies.

"I could have flown faster on the way back if I'd made only two stops," he said, "but we planned it with three so I couldn't miss."

His East to West flight—5:27:37—clipped more than an hour and a half off Paul Mantz' 1947 mark of 7:00:04 in 1947. His West-East flight was considerably slower than the listed mark of 3:46:33 set by Air Force Lt. Col. Robert D. Scott last March 16 in an F4F. Scott refueled in the air; Conroy landed twice en route to New York.

Conroy, 34, flew by his own navigation from Los Angeles to New York but relied on the Air Force's nationwide radar service on the return trip.

"I was so tired I didn't want to watch the map, so I flew by radar all the way back," the handsome ex-bomber pilot admitted. "They gave me the course and I followed it."

More than 150 National Guardsmen from coast-to-coast participated in the project which the pilot said proved the guard is combat-ready.

It was the culmination of a two-year dream for Conroy, who first proposed the idea to National Guard chiefs three months ago. Two weeks ago he received approval.

Now a Van Nuys swimming pool contractor, Conroy is a compact 5 feet 9, weighing 165 pounds.

Since his B17 days in Europe, he has amassed more than 11,000 hours in the air.

Tomorrow he goes back to his week-day job of building swimming pools in the San Fernando Valley.

Fresh Advice Sought On Salk Vaccine

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Government health authorities maintained an attitude of caution today as they awaited fresh advice which could determine how soon the nation's antipolio vaccination campaign gets started again.

Specialists in the field confer tomorrow on the findings of a team of experts who have inspected the manufacturing and testing processes of vaccine producers.

Their conclusions possibly could result in still tighter safety standards for the vaccine already given to nearly six million youngsters. Any move in this direction would have a delaying effect on the drive to inoculate children of the most susceptible ages this year.

The vaccination campaign, which has been on and off, slowed down again last week when the Public Health Service temporarily stopped clearing vaccine already produced.

Experts Review

Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele confirmed late yesterday that a group of experts, including manufacturers' technicians, would review findings of the inspectors at a meeting here tomorrow.

But Scheele, who has emphasized a better-safe-than-sorry approach, specified in his announcement that the group's recommendations will be "advisory." He gave no indication when his own decision on a next step would be announced, saying only it "will be made as soon as possible."

Dr. Jonas E. Salk, developer of the vaccine, will miss tomorrow's session. A health service spokesman said the University of Pittsburgh scientist sent word it would be "impossible" for him to be here. Salk has sat in on previous discussions of testing and manufacturing problems.

Besides Scheele, the conferees include Health Service consultants, scientists of the National Institutes of Health and technological representatives of the six pharmaceutical firms licensed to produce the vaccine.

Complete retesting of vaccine already made would require from four to five weeks. Adoption of more detailed standards could add several days to this, although a new process said to be under study might cut down the total time.

In any event, the current embargo on fresh supplies and the delay in approval of vaccine already made has thrown blocks into the inoculation program. Schools begin to close shortly, raising the problem of when second shots will be given to the millions of youngsters who have received their initial injection.

Original plans were to complete the first two rounds for all children from 1 to 9 before August, when the polio season reaches its height. That goal now appears further away, although the Health Service said last week it wouldn't be necessary to curtail the program during the high incidence season.

Committee To Approve This Week

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Chairman George (D-Ga.) said today the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is not likely to give President Eisenhower a "blank check" to administer a 200-million-dollar Asian aid fund.

George told reporters he thinks the committee will approve sometime this week the President's $1.1-billion-dollar foreign aid program without material reductions.

But he said it is likely to affix some "general limitations" on a special presidential fund designed to help finance regional economic development for friendly nations in Asia.

"I rather favor the idea of having such a fund with the proper and necessary limitations," he said. "But the committee is not likely to give the President a complete blank check on it."

The committee will hear Chester Bowles, former ambassador to India, in a public session tomorrow before resuming its closed door work on the bill.

Uses Not Known

George said the committee knows little about the uses to which the proposed 200-million-dollar fund might be put, particularly since Asian nations made it clear at a recent conference they want assistance on a country-by-country basis and not in a regional pool.

He said H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense, had suggested the fund might be used to make loans to Far Eastern countries, rather than outright aid grants. George said the committee might stipulate a percentage of the money be used in this way.

George said he thinks the committee will strike out of the bill an administration sponsored provision which would permit the discharge without regard to Civil Service rules of holdover officials from the expiring Foreign Operations Administration who make $5,000 a year or more.

"That will be one of the issues in consideration of the bill," he said. "I think this authority is likely to be eliminated."

Some committee members have said they want to question John B. Hollister about his attitude toward the economic assistance program which he has been picked to head after July 1. George said he saw no reason to call Hollister at this time.

Escapes Gallows, Does Own Hanging

LONDON, May 22 (AP)—Frank Abbatto, 22, truck driver who escaped the gallows last Tuesday when tried on a murder charge, was found hanging in his cell at Wormwood Scrubs jail last night. Prison officials said he had taken his own life.

Abbatto was sentenced to seven years imprisonment after being convicted on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the killing of a 72-year-old hairdresser.

Nationalists Say Reds Add New Airfield, Rush Work On Big Base Opposite Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 22 (AP)—The Chinese Reds were reported today to be working 30,000 laborers around the clock to add another air base to their growing ring of jet fields within striking distance of Formosa.

Taipei News Agency said the base was at Changting, 280 miles west of Formosa. Russian experts were reported directing the work on the huge base, which will be capable of handling every type of plane.

Taipei said the Communists also have finished a smaller jet airfield at Kienow, 220 miles northwest of Formosa. Taitao, which claims mainland underground contacts, said no jets had yet been reported based at Kienow.

By Taitao's account, the base at Changting would be similar to the one recently finished at Lukiao, 220 miles north of Formosa. Lukiao is reputed to be the largest air base in all Red China.

To protect it from air attack, the Changting base will have underground hangars, fuel storage and repair shops, the agency reported.

Soviet May Be Seeking Wedge Between West

WASHINGTON, May 22 (AP)—Russia took a long step today toward rejection of the terms and conditions set by the Western Powers for a top-level Big Four conference this summer.

An editorial in Pravda, bitterly attacking these terms as if they had been proposed by the United States alone, also suggested to experts here that the Soviet Union is trying to drive a wedge between the United States on the one hand and Britain and France on the other. The implication of the Soviet line is that it is only the American leaders who are being unreasonable.

Actually the terms for the meeting—that it should be short and confined to a definition of the problems and the methods to be used in solving them—were jointly proposed to the Russians in an American-British-French note two weeks ago.

West Is Firm

But since then President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have been more outspoken in emphasizing the strength and firmness of the Western stand. Apparently their assertions have annoyed the Soviets and also provided them with a convenient excuse for trying to change the nature and purposes of the meeting.

State Department officials said the Pravda editorial would have to be studied in detail. They would not be surprised if it was followed up by an official note from the Soviet government Monday or Tuesday along the same line, perhaps milder in tone.

Meanwhile the State Department had no formal comment. The initial reaction of U.S. officials was the Russians are not trying to get out of the Big Four meeting but probably are trying to twist it more to their purposes.

In this respect several interesting points stand out: 1. Pravda, which is the Communist party newspaper, said that the United States was being "unreasonable" about the length of the meeting. It also spoke of having the meeting give serious consideration to urgent international problems.

Soviet Plan

The Soviet government apparently wants to create a situation in which President Eisenhower, Premier Bulganin, Prime Minister Eden and Premier Faure would have to solve some problems themselves. This is not the kind of meeting the Western Powers proposed. But it might serve Russian purposes since the Reds traditionally seek sweeping generalized commitments such as a pledge to outlaw atomic arms or recognition of zones of influence.

2. The editorial protested Western rejection of Vienna as a site for the conference. Secretary Dulles took the position it would be improper for Eisenhower to go into an area where the Russians shared occupation. The Soviets are insisting on Vienna apparently because they want maximum propaganda for their Austrian formula of unity and independence for a country provided it is neutralized.

3. Pravda expressed deep resentment to a statement in the Dulles-Eisenhower radio-television broadcast of last Tuesday night that a Big Four conference should consider the problems of the Soviet satellite states and of ending the "test" of Communist operations in free countries.

Hess Bros. Warehouse Destroyed

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 22 (AP)—A warehouse and distribution center for the nationally known Hess Bros. department store was destroyed yesterday by fire which caused damage estimated at $850,000.

Four firemen were treated and discharged at Allentown Hospital for minor injuries in fighting the general alarm blaze.

Max Hess Jr., president of the store, valued the merchandise lost in the fire at $750,000.

The blaze started in a rear shed of the building and drove nine co-workers from the brick and steel structure. Cause of the fire was not known.

Miss Bunnell Returns From Near East

MISS LELA M. Bunnell, 41, Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, has just returned from an extensive tour of two months through the Mediterranean and the Near East.

In connection with a Bible-Land Tour operated by Christian Herald of New York, and together with the other members of the tour party, visits were made to four-teen countries and island groups including Madeira, Tunisia, Egypt, Lebanon, Syria, Jordan, Israel, Cyprus, Turkey, Greece, Italy, France, Spain, and Portugal.

In addition to the regular sight-seeing programs, the party visited some of the American missionary centers including colleges and universities. In some countries official welcomes were extended in behalf of the governments. In Israel the group was greeted personally by President Ben-Zvi.

Much time was spent among the holy places where Jesus lived, taught, preached and healed. A highlight of the tour was a sunrise Easter communion service at Gethsemane Garden Tomb in the suburbs of old Jerusalem, near Golgotha or the Place of the Skull.

Despite the many and varied rumors circulating in our country, the members of this Bible-Land Tour Party encountered no travel difficulties. In fact, they witnessed no evidence of conflict in any country visited. The peoples of all the countries were friendly and seemed glad to greet a company of Americans of high moral and gracious caliber.

Progress in farming, manufacturing and in living standards was noted in some places though much of the life in the countries Jesus knew is about the same as it was 2,000 years ago.

Red To Test West While Confabs Run

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

This will be a summer of intense diplomatic activity at high levels. While this may have a tendency in the West to deflect attention from what is going on elsewhere, the Russians will be exploring every possibility, however remote, for dividing the Western camp.

A number of recent developments testify to this. One is the attitude of the Russians in Berlin on the Western appeal for Moscow's intervention on the road tax issue. Another is a new pronouncement by Maurice Thorez, secretary general of the French Communist Party which lays down the line frequently for European communists.

In Berlin, the West asked the Russians to step in and prevent "blackmail" taxes on vital truck traffic to and from West Berlin, an isolated island in the Soviet zone of Germany. Soviet Ambassador Georgi Pushkin shrugged off the plea. He told his Western counterparts the exorbitant taxes imposed by the communists seven weeks ago were solely the responsibility of the German People's Democratic Republic. That government is a Soviet puppet.

Reds Logic

The Russian move is logical enough. Recently the communists put forward the slogan, "Germans must sit around the same table together." The communists are trying to force recognition of their East Zone government by obliging the Federal Republic at Bonn to negotiate with it. Once the ice is broken, the implication is that there can be negotiations on other issues, too, including all-German elections and reunification of Germany.

That does not mean that the communists intend to permit free elections, but it does mean that they are attempting to use the promise as a means of slowing down West Germany's contribution to NATO, of which it recently became a member. The West German Social Democrats and representatives of the powerful West German trade unions have been demanding that all possible avenues toward reunification be explored before West Germany is rearmed. The offer of such an avenue could mean long delay.

In France the Communist Party Central Committee has just held an important session at which tactics for the new European campaign were polished up. This foreshadows an attempt by communists to participate once again in the French and Italian governments. The two countries are targets no less important than Germany in the drive to break up Western unity.

European communists recognize they have no hope at this time of accomplishing their aims by revolutionary methods. They are re-visiting the idea of legal, parliamentary action. And communists are ordered to win the socialists and all elements of the left into a popular front.

Revive Old Line

The communists, at Moscow's direction, have revived the line of 20 years ago, when the U.S.S.R. stood in awe of the growing menace of the Berlin-Tokyo-Rome axis. Then the cry was for a "popular front against fascism." Now it is for a "united front of the working class against war policies and atomic war preparations."

The Soviet Union is playing for a vitally needed time to build up its potential and mend its economic woes. Obviously, Moscow now fears that by the time such tasks are accomplished, Western unity will be so solid that the huge Red build-up will be insufficient to halt a roll-back in Europe.

By Joy Miller

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—As usual, animals had more fun than people last week.

There was the friendly burro in Fairfield, Conn. who struck up an acquaintance with a milkman on the spur of the moment. She followed him from door to door until he asked police for help. Nothing did any good until a call to her owner produced the suggestion she liked to have her nose tickled. Ticking steadily, a policeman enticed her to her home more than a mile away.

In England, antmats are brought up with a deeper respect for their social obligations. There's Rex, an English sheepdog, for example. He was taking part in the dog parade at the Royal Horse Show in Windsor. When it started to pour, he had enough sense to get in out of the rain. Specifically, right beside Queen Elizabeth II in the royal enclosure. Rex ignored orders from his master and the kennel boys. Then his Queen told him to go back to the pack in the parade. It was a royal command. He went.

An English pet shop owner visiting San Francisco proposed a slithering bit of business as a solution to the crime problem. "Little snakes, attractively colored, are just the things for ladies' handbags," he said. "An excellent protection against bag snatchers." And to prevent auto thefts, he recommended you just coil a python around the steering wheel when you leave your car. He didn't suggest what to do with the snakes when they weren't on duty.

There were at least a couple of camels' temperature rises almost 12 degrees Fahrenheit before it begins to sweat.

Kremlin Can Garrison Troops In Three Satellites In Pact

By Tom Whitney

NEW YORK, May 22 (AP)—Under the just-signed Warsaw pact the Kremlin can now garrison troops in three more satellites—Albania, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia.

So far as is known these three countries have not had contingents of Russian occupation forces on their soil during the past few years. Nor did the U.S.S.R. have any legal pretext under which it could send them there.

In each of these countries the Russian forces would have military positions of importance.

However, for the present the political importance of Soviet garrisons in Albania, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria would be considerably greater than their strategic significance. In each of these three countries the Russians have a very tight grip on things. This is done through the Communist party, the police network, and also occupation by Soviet citizens of key positions in the government and army. Yet the Soviet army itself is not present.

In these circumstances should there be quick revolt against Communist rule or should the regimes in the three countries decide to follow Tito's example, it would be very difficult for the Russians to intervene.

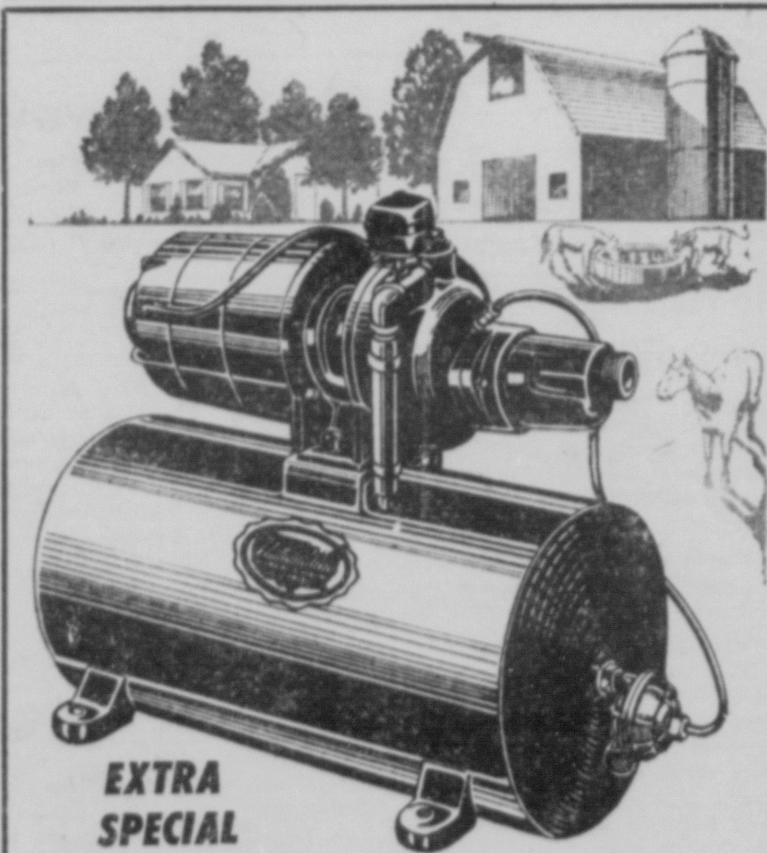

But with Soviet army units actually in the country they could take immediate action to re-establish Kremlin control and rally about themselves local pro-Soviet forces.

Austrian Treaty, Big Four Meeting Robbed British Socialists Of Campaign Issues

It is obviously not an exciting election. The fact is that the voters do not understand why an election is held at this time at all. The Conservatives still had 13 months to continue in office. There are many explanations, the favorite being that Sir Anthony Eden did not want to finish Sir Winston Churchill's term. He wanted the confidence of the people all on his own. Then he could continue for five years if he gets a working majority in the House of Commons and holds that majority. Others suggest that there must be some great events in the world about which the people know nothing, and that if Sir Anthony Eden is to devote himself to negotiations on major problems, he must show that

The Conservatives have the advantage in the argument that it was Churchill who saw them through a war that might have been a conquest and that Eden has labored for peace. The Austrian Treaty and the agreement for the Big Four to meet "at the summit" are undoubtedly helping the Conservatives. At any rate, it has robbed the Socialists of the principal issue. It has, in fact, left them without an issue.

There is no argument against prosperity and full employment. Socialism can create an anger against possessions and the possessors when times are bad, when groceries are costly and the future is dim. But what is to be said against prosperity except that it is too good to be true?

The result is a campaign without issues, a campaign which

"Can't my mother come as an observer?" asked the missus.

"No. And I promise not to admit my poker club associates as consultants."

"Just as soon as we start discussions at the summit you will drag in that old one about Mr. Migglesby always being boss in his own home."

"And you will slide from the

Business, Professional Womens Club Receive Rush Award

Lay Group Worked For Public Health

MONROE COUNTY Medical Society has selected the Business and Professional Women's Club for the Dr. Benjamin Rush Award to the lay organization making the finest contribution to public health in the past year.

The county award automatically makes the organization a nominee for the state-level award to the lay organization contributing most to public health.

The Business and Professional Women's Club's outstanding operation of the Mothers' March for Polio funds was the most important factor contributing to selection for the Dr. Benjamin Rush award this year.

Monroe County Medical Society's nomination sets forth:

In a year of faltering welfare fund campaigns, the Mother's March on Polio in Monroe County exceeded all previous campaigns, and in 1955 fent far over its quota, with more than $6,500 collected in a single concentrated effort.

For their administration of the Mothers' March, for their mobilization of several hundred women of the county, for its successful conduct, and for the untiring work of its members, not only in the campaign itself but in the educational program before the campaign, the Business and Professional Women's Club of the Stroudsburgs has made an outstanding contribution to the health of all citizens.

Moreover, the club has not been weary of well-doing. This is the fourth year they have sponsored the Mother's March. Each year they have not only exceeded the quota set, but have surpassed their own record for the previous year.

In addition through their continuing project to establish a Home for the Aged III in Monroe County they are keeping before the public a serious un-met need.

The Business and Professional Women's Club has also contributed funds to Community Chest, Cancer, the Red Cross and the Woman's Medical College and the services of its individual members to health campaigns and welfare boards.

Red Cross Home Nursing Is In School, Home Course Plan

THE HOME NURSING SERVICE of the Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross has functioned in both school and community classes during the year.

On Friday a class of 20 students at Stroudsburg High School completed its work in the classes taught by Mrs. Thomas Shoemith, Red Cross nurse, assisted by Mrs. John Stanford with Miss Mary Hall of the high school faculty as the cooperating teacher.

With this class the home nursing service of which Mrs. Eugene H. Martin is chairman, has provided classroom instruction in home nursing reaching into all but one of the senior high schools of the county in a program involving 130 girls.

Taking part in the program were the following teachers and schools: Miss Dorothy Cerkvitz, East Stroudsburg Senior High School; Miss Marion Mackes, Polk Township; Mrs. Janet Mitchell, Chestnut Hill Township; Mrs. Grace Wildrick, Tobyhanna Township; Miss Catherine Scanlon, Coalinga Township; and Louise Johnston of Barrett Township.

The one school not presenting the program this year plans to do so next September when a class of 20 will be taught at Pocono Township High School with Mrs. June Young as the cooperating teacher.

The majority of the 130 girls taking the course have been seniors and almost all of them have qualified for Red Cross Home Nursing certificates. The course is so coordinated in both theory and practice that students earning their certificates are well-trained in helping to care for the sick patient in the home.

One of the vocational aspects of the course has been one lesson devoted to nursing as a profession for women. At the present time, eight girls from the classes already held, have been accepted to begin their training this Fall in the various hospital schools of nursing in Pennsylvania.

In Monroe County Chapter of the American Red Cross Mrs. Martin has organized the home nursing groups into committees with specific duties in planning and carrying out the program.

The equipment committee is headed by Mrs. John Stanford who is assisted by Mrs. Ida Kunkle, executive secretary of the local chapter, and by Mrs. Martin.

Mrs. Samuel O. Wells, III is chairman of the recruitment committee for classes which also includes Dr. Nina Mae Price, Mrs. Frank Grimm, Mrs. Henry Slaboski and Mrs. Edgar Van Why.

Mrs. Miriam Lark Marks is chairman of the school committee which includes Mrs. Thomas Shoemith and Mrs. John Stanford. The nursing committee includes Mrs. David Kohn, chairman; Miss Charlotte Shupp, Mrs. Martha Kintz and Mrs. Roman Batary.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

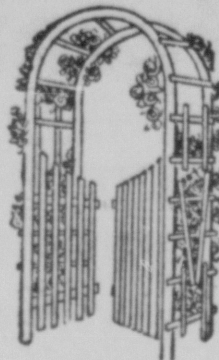

You wouldn't have had to ask which club was having the dinner dance at the Fernwood on Saturday night. They were all much to young and pretty to be anything but the Junior Women's Club. Besides the dinner, which was scheduled late enough so that all the babies were snug in their beds before the baby sitters arrived.

Anyway a lot of the Junior Women looked young enough to be baby sitters themselves, and very handsome in their dinner dresses—with at least six of them going around bragging they'd made them themselves.

The gift which Fran Mikels received was a tiny gold charm for her charm bracelet. It was a clock to represent the hours of service she had given the club. The hands were set at 8:30 which Fran swore was later than she'd ever started any meeting: 8:10 maybe, but not 8:30.

Bobbie Gilpin, Senior advisor, received as her gift, not something for herself but a check for her favorite welfare, the Child Health Committee. It was a gala evening all the way round, and having more fun than anybody were the Seniors fortunate enough to be invited guests.

In between this sentence and the last, I went to the rehearsal of the three choirs at the church, and my head is still ringing with the final chorus of 70 voices with organ and trumpet accompaniment. It was tremendous, and at the moment words seem a sort of futile way of trying to express anything.

Now comes Anne Morrow Lindbergh's fourth book—"Gift from the Sea", a book with a message that every woman might do well to read and study. It is the product of these middle years of her life when she has reared a family of five, won personal success, proved herself as a wife, mother, artist, and public citizen, and when she has reached the point of wondering just what form her life has taken, and what form it must assume in the years ahead if it is to be worthwhile to those whom she loves and to herself. Mrs. Lindbergh realizes—humbly and appreciatively—that women are created to give. She has also recognized that a time arrives when one renews the giving of oneself in dribs and drabs in answer to myriad demands . . . a time when one loses contact with the world and one's family because, basically, one has lost contact with oneself.

It was at this point that the author left her home, like a channeled whetted desertimist's shell, to go away for a brief period of solitude by the sea. There, through studying the various shells tossed up on the sands, she has reached conclusions about the simplification of life, the need for aloneness and occasional "alone-togetherness" with a loved one that gives her, and her reader, a new outlook particularly adjusted to those middle years which we Americans so fear and under-value.

I shall not attempt to analyze Mrs. Lindbergh's book here . . . it deserves greater space and deeper study. It deserves, as a matter of fact, to be read by every woman who needs a mental house-cleaning and renovation.

In 1928 a tiny slip of a girl graduated from Smith College. The event was newsworthy primarily because she was the daughter of Dwight Morrow, United States Ambassador to Mexico. It is safe to assume that in time she would have become famous in her own right, because hers is a distinctly fine mind and her talent lies in the ability to capture deep, elusive thoughts in words that are strangely beautiful and poetic. But fate speeded up her rise to a place in the public eye by mating her romantically with Charles Lindbergh, the most popular idol of his day . . . the "Lone Eagle" who had fired the imagination of men and women everywhere with his nonstop conquest of the Atlantic Ocean by air.

Because of the shy, boyish Lindy's courtship, we learned more about Anne Morrow. She was as charming as she was petite; she was gifted, and wrote lovely poetry. She was, all America decided, a perfect wife for the beloved Public Hero Number One.

After their marriage, the glamorous couple set forth upon a number of air adventures. When a new trade route was to be charted to the Orient, Anne Lindbergh went along with her husband. Other flights were shared. And fast rising on the list of best sellers were her books "North To The Orient" and "Listen, the Wind". Delectably the public realized that the books deserved to be read, not because Anne Morrow Lindbergh had written them, but because they were interesting, enlightening, and thoroughly charming.

Somewhere along the way tragedy struck. The couple's first child was kidnapped from his crib, later to be found murdered. A hideous period of spotlighted suffering followed as the criminal was apprehended and brought to trial in a courtroom that was as much a three-ring circus as it was a hall of justice. Through it all two women stood out as perfect examples of decorum . . . one of them the taunted, sorrowful wife of the accused man; the other, the gently reared mother of the dead boy. Once again Anne Morrow Lindbergh was the revered "just right" wife of an American hero.

Now comes Anne Morrow Lindbergh's fourth book—"Gift from the Sea", a book with a message that every woman might do well to read and study. It is the product of these middle years of her life when she has reared a family of five, won personal success, proved herself as a wife, mother, artist, and public citizen, and when she has reached the point of wondering just what form her life has taken, and what form it must assume in the years ahead if it is to be worthwhile to those whom she loves and to herself. Two Turnpike Extensions, Industrial Plans Face Assembly

Tax Battle Still Caught In Discussion

HARRISBURG, May 22 (P)—Legislation may pass the General Assembly this week authorizing a huge development program in central Pennsylvania and two new extensions of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Both the turnpike and development bills are strongly backed by the Leader administration. They have passed the Senate and could be called up for a final vote in the House this week.

Under the development bill, the state would be authorized to sell outright 9,000 acres and to lease an additional 45,000 acres near Clearfield in Clearfield, Cameron and Elk counties to the Curtiss-Wright Aeronautical Corp. for an experimental and testing project.

Gov. Leader estimated the project would provide 6,000 to 7,000 jobs in that area.

One of the turnpike bills would authorize a Stroudsburg-Sharon toll road across the state paralleling to the north the present 360-mile turnpike. The other would authorize an extension east or west of Pittsburgh to the West Virginia border.

Construction of the two extensions, if authorized, would be up to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission on the basis of traffic surveys to determine their financial feasibility.

Tax A Question

As the 1951 session nears the end of the fifth month with the state's tax problem still unresolved, the question of hotel accommodations for legislators during the summer months started coming to the front. Rep. Albert S. Readinger, Democratic floor leader, said some recesses may be necessary because hotels have booked their rooms for conventions during periods of July and August.

A similar situation faced the 1951 session which was deadlocked throughout the year over former Gov. John S. Fine's income tax proposal. There were a series of recesses during the summer at that session because hotel rooms were unavailable.

Readinger said stop-gap appropriation bills of 50 million dollars for general purposes and 15 million for relief would be introduced to finance activities until the general appropriation bills are passed to finance the 1955-57 biennium. The general appropriation bills will be submitted after the tax situation is resolved.

At the same time, Readinger said he expected Gov. Leader's tax program, centering around a classified income tax, would pass the Democratic House but would be stalled in the Republican Senate. However, at last count sufficient Democrats in the House declared against the income tax to prevent its passage there.

Readinger said he expected the bulk of the administration program to clear the House by the end of May.

Gov. Leader is planning a series of speeches, some of them on radio and television, to explain the administration's half-billion tax program to the taxpayers. The program includes the classified income tax, with rates ranging from one per cent on wages and salaries to six per cent on various types of investment income.

The governor said last night in a speech at the golden jubilee of nearby Lemoyne borough:

"There is no such thing as a popular tax. But there are honest taxes. Taxes that don't pick your pockets when you're not looking but taxes that you know you are paying. We don't advocate the 'sneak-type' taxes. We don't think the people like to be fooled."

The weekend also brought another series of statements on taxes and other issues before the Legislature.

Barr Backs Leader

Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman, backed up Leader's announcement that all means of communication will be used to "educate" the public to the need for new taxes.

Miles Horst, state Republican chairman, hammered away at Leader's announced support of a House bill to cut off Commonwealth subsidies of $200 per year to rural school districts for closing one-room buildings in jointure moves.

"The total amount spent for this purpose represents only one per cent of what the General Assembly has been asked by the governor to appropriate for the support of the public schools," Horst's statement said.

"Certainly the Leader administration should carry out its promises to save money through a real organization of the state government before it runs out on the state's obligations to our school children."

Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic floor leader, scored a statement by Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, Republican floor leader, that the administration's income tax bill will die in the Senate Finance Committee if it passes the House.

"If, as Sen. Mahany puts it, the responsibility for a tax program rests with the Democrats, the Republicans should allow us to pass our tax plan or submit one of their own," said Dent.

Mrs. Jacob Gearhardt of New York City visited her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, and her niece, Mrs. A. Rediz, Sunday. Rev. Mr. Gearhardt spoke to Monroe County folk on the Wyckoff Shopper program two years or more ago when he had arrived in this country as a D.P. after indescribable hardships in occupied Germany. He had been promised a Lutheran parish, but failing that had to return to Europe the next year. Mrs. Gearhardt has remained because her two sons and grandchildren had arrived in New York City after two years negotiating to get here. Now because of her husband and aged mother in Europe, Mrs. Gearhardt leaves her family here and returns there. An accomplished musician and church organist and having helped her husband in the spiritual care of one of the largest and wealthiest Lutheran parishes in their section of Europe, Mrs. Gearhardt has been working in a factory the past two years to support her children until they could care for their own livelihood.

Lutheran Ministerium Opens Sessions At Buck Hill Today

BETWEEN SEVEN and eight hundred Lutheran pastors and lay delegates will be in attendance at the 208th annual convention of the Evangelical Lutheran Ministerium of Pennsylvania and the Adjacent States at Buck Hill Falls, Monday, May 23 to the 26.

All of the Lutheran congregations of Monroe County will be represented by pastors and lay delegates. Rev. Dr. C. M. Cooper, president will preside at all sessions. Rev. Dr. Claude E. Schick, son of Edgar Schick of East Stroudsburg, is secretary of the body.

The session will start 2 p.m. Monday with the administration of Holy Communion and the sermon by the president. The business session will begin at 4 p.m. At 8 p.m. the Ministerial session will be held in the auditorium for the fine Laymen's meeting, which will be held in the East Room of the Inn. Members of the Muhlenberg faculty will be among the speakers.

Reports of the treasurer show receipts for the year 1954 as being over two million dollars. Among the items shown are the property of the Ministerium; Camp Miller, Camp Hagan, and Ministerium Camp valued at five hundred thousand dollars. Among the items of business which will, doubtless, create considerable discussion are amendments to the constitution. Another item will be the creation of an office in the Board of Home Missions that will direct specific activity to the rural areas.

The report on the Muhlenberg College appeal will reveal that virtually two-thirds of $1,500,000 has been secured in cash and pledges to date. The committee will recommend that the appeal be continued for one more year with the hope of completing the entire amount. These funds will be used to erect a new men's dormitory, and to prepare the West Hall as a dormitory for girls, expecting to make Muhlenberg Co-Educational by the fall of 1957.

The business session will conclude Thursday afternoon and that same night at 7:30 a class of eight men will be ordained into the Christian ministry in St. John's Lutheran Church of Stroudsburg.

Evangelist Bill Graham Speaks To Queen Elizabeth In Royal Chapel Of Windsor Castle

WINDSOR, England, May 22 (P)—U.S. evangelist Billy Graham preached to Queen Elizabeth today in a royal chapel. The Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret also heard the American minister.

Later Graham and his wife lunched with the Queen.

Graham, obviously affected by the singular honor, told reporters afterward: "I can only say it was a great privilege to be at Windsor today and that the Queen was very charming and gracious to us."

The sermon to the royal family was a surprise climax to the handsome evangelist's seven-week Scotland-England crusade, which reaped more than 77,000 "Decisions for Christ." The fact that the 36-year-old North Carolina preacher was invited to conduct a private service for royalty could not help but lift his prestige—already at a high tide in Britain.

Queen Elizabeth is titular head of the Church of England and "defender of the Faith." Graham is an ordained Southern Baptist minister, but he has always been at pains to emphasize an inter-denominational approach in his crusades.

The Church of England has never officially endorsed Graham's crusades, but has tacitly given them strong support.

Graham closed his revival meetings in Britain last night with an impassioned sermon before 90,000 in Wembley Stadium. The British Broadcasting Corporation carried his words and a commentator described how several thousand came forward to make "Decisions for Christ."

Attendances at Graham's meetings in Britain this year totaled 3,139,365.

Graham leaves for Edinburgh tonight to attend a general assembly of the Church of Scotland. Next Sunday he will go to Paris to continue his crusade meetings.

Phillips, Morris Blast Homers In Victory

Although the Hellertown first sacker cracked the ball 350 feet from home plate, it is only fair to reveal that it never would have been a circus blow if Kupiszewski hadn't lost the ball in the tall grass. Friday's one-hitter was the second such performance turned in by Sommers this season. Dick Gray's homer in the first inning was the third hit by the Cavaliers this year.

Wynn Checks Tigers On One Hit, 4-0

DETROIT, May 22 (AP)—Early Wynn checked Cleveland's brief two-game losing streak with a powerful one-hitter today that gave the Indians a 4-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers before 33,743 in Briggs Stadium.

The only hit off the 35-year-old righthander was a line single to right by Fred Hatfield in the fourth inning. After that safety, Wynn retired the last 16 batters in order to record his fourth triumph against one loss.

Wynn's timely performance followed two straight losses to the upstart Tigers, who knocked the Indians out of first place by dealing losses to Bob Lemon and Mike Garcia yesterday and Friday.

Cleveland collected 10 hits off three Tiger pitchers, with starter Ned Garver, who worked the first eight innings, getting the loss. It was his sixth against three victories.

The Indians scored twice in the second on a walk, singles by Bobby Avila and Dave Pope, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly by Larry Doby. Pope's foul line double, scoring Al Smith, made it 2-0 in the seventh. The final run crossed in the ninth on Doby's infield grounder with the bases loaded.

Wynn's big trouble came in the second inning when he walked three batters to fill the bases, but he got out of the jam by getting Garver to pop out.

Phillies Rally Too Late In Losing Effort Against Bums

BROOKLYN, May 22 (AP)—Home runs by Del Ennis and Roy Smalley touched off a ninth-inning rally that chased Carl Erskine today but Brooklyn's wide early lead helped him for an 8-3 victory. The Dodgers now have won 27 of their first 35 games.

Braves Snap Cubs' Win Streak, 5-1

MILWAUKEE, May 22 (AP)—A three-hitter earned Gene Conley his sixth victory for the Chicago Cubs.

Big Gene, with only one loss on his slate, fanned eight and gave up just two walks as the Braves snapped their four-game losing streak and the Cubs' string of four straight victories. The three hits he allowed were spread over three innings.

The Braves got two runs in the fifth and kept rolling in the seventh with three more.

Two Runs
Danny O'Connell's single forced one in the fifth and second baseman Gene Baker's fumble of Hank Aaron's grounder provided the other.

Billy Bruton opened the seventh for Milwaukee with a single. Jones hit O'Connell in the back with a pitch and the bases were full when Ransom Jackson dropped Jones' throw on an attempted force at third on Chuck Tanner's bunt. Aaron followed with a single to left to score two runs. The third came in when Johnny Logan singled to center off reliever Hal Jeffcoat.

Chicago's sole run crossed in the fourth with Baker, who had walked coming around from second on Jackson's single to center.

U.S. Go'fers Shoot For New Laurels

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 22 (AP)—The Walker Cup-winning Americans moved base today from St. Andrews, where they made the British look like dubs, to St. Anne's, where they will try to finish off a grand slam by winning the amateur championship.

The British Amateur will be played over Lytham and St. Anne's 6,657 yard links along the Irish Sea May 30-June 4. If one of the Americans does not win the big title a 29-year old record will be broken.

Favorite
Every year since 1926 that Walker Cup matches were played in Britain, an American followed them up by winning the British Amateur title.

The favorite to win the 60th British title is Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N.C.

Eden Expected Winner In Britain's 1955 'Slowed' Election

Pro-Labor Newspaper Concedes

LONDON, May 22 (P)—Britain's 1955 election campaign strolled into the home stretch today. There appeared to be much more interest in the running of the Epsom Derby Wednesday and in a couple of threatened strikes.

"The quietest general election in living memory draws toward its close," said the Sunday Times as the nation prepared to choose a new Parliament Thursday.

The staid Sunday Observer suggested it was time for "the slow handclap" — the caustic protest usually heard at a dull, dreary prize fight.

Most of the newspaper headlines went to the horse race at Epsom and to rail and port strikes scheduled to start this week.

The consensus among British newspapers is that Prime Minister Eden and his Conservatives will win. At least one pro-Labor newspaper joined pro-Conservative publications and the public opinion polls in that prediction.

In the 625-seat Parliament just dissolved by Eden, his Tory party held a slim 17-seat edge. Six hundred thirty seats have to be filled this time, and the party winning the majority will take control of the government.

Eden To Return

It will determine whether Eden will return for a full five-year term to head the Conservative government he inherited on Winston Churchill's retirement last month. The alternative would be a Labor party comeback — the return of Clement Attlee, whose postwar Socialist government was toppled by Churchill in the bitter, heated election of 1951.

Churchill's victory in 1951 gave the Conservatives full control of the government until 1956. But Eden, shortly after becoming prime minister, had Parliament dissolved and called this election in the hope of gaining a mandate in his own right.

A full round of campaign oratory was planned for the final four days of the campaign, but the big radio and television broadcasts—just about the only ones that have been drawing any crowds—were finished.

Churchill was staying close to his own election district in Woodford, the London suburb which he would represent as just an ordinary member of Parliament. But Eden, Attlee and the Labor party's fiery orator, Aneurin Bevan, scheduled wide-ranging tours for the final days.

Presbyterian General Assembly Hears Rev. Ernest T. Campbell

REV. ERNEST T. Campbell, former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Stroudsburg, and now pastor of the York Presbyterian Church was one of two featured speakers at a rally preceding the 167th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America being held in Los Angeles, Cal.

The other speaker was Dr. Charles B. Templeton of New York, secretary of the division of evangelism of the Presbyterian Church, and both his address and that of Mr. Campbell were quoted extensively in Associated Press dispatches in papers throughout the country.

In his address on "The Signs of Pentecost," Campbell said: "Evangelism is nothing more or less than the practice of speaking the truth . . . to those who have not yet received it. Evangelism is to a church what a pilot light is to the burners of a stove. Without evangelism, congregational life becomes dangerously inbred, worship becomes a performance by the few for the many; midweek activity becomes much ado about nothing; social service becomes travail without birth . . ."

"The unready church that has lost faith in the power of the Gospel to transform life and reshape society. . ."

"We have so worshiped the twin deities of heredity and environment that we have been bluffed out of the awareness that God still makes men new."
